

Indiana University Northwest (45 minutes from downtown Chicago)
Department of Psychology seeks Adjunct Instructors for new Neuroscience program!

Undergraduate Courses: online or face-to-face instruction

Fall semester 2019, runs from August 26 – December 21

Possible courses include:

PSY-P 326: Behavioral Neuroscience
PSY-P 329: Sensation and Perception
PSY-P 386: Social Neuroscience
PSY-P 410: Development of the Brain and Behavior
PSY-P 437: Neurobiology of Addictions
PSY-P 453: Decision-making and the Brain
PSY-P 461: Human Memory

If interested in developing a course in one's content area:

PSY-P 388: Special Topics in General Experimental Psychology. Recent topics have included Cognitive Neuroscience and the Science of Sleep.

If new to teaching online, IUN's Center for Innovation and Scholarship in Teaching in Learning (CISTL) offers a four-week Online Certification Course in the summer. In this course, faculty are prepared to teach online. It helps instructors understand what online learning is, how to develop their course content for an online environment, and what the best practices are for online course development and teaching. It also explores such areas as best practices, instructional design, ADA web accessibility guidelines, and internet copyright and fair use.

Psy. D., Ph. D., or ABD required. Compensation is $3000 for instructors with doctoral degrees, $2500 for ABD. For questions, or to submit a CV for consideration, please contact the department chair at the address below.
